

Read In Redux

Revitalizing Library Programming

42nd Annual ALA/O Conference
October 28, 2016

Erin Vonnahee, Miami University Libraries

vonnahee@MiamiOH.edu | @MaxRenewals

letters
poetry, plays
prose
from novels
original works
performances
artwork
diaries
dramatic readings
songs spoken
word
creativity
courage art
passion
daring
love music
writing

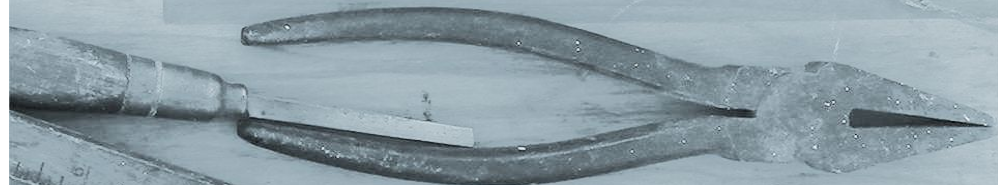

WOMEN'S HISTORY MONTH

MAKE HER SPACE MAKERSPACE MAKE HIR SPACE

JOIN US AT AN INCLUSIVE DIY SPACE WITH CRAFTER STATIONS & FOOD

TINKER • CUT & FOLD • COLOR STITCH • PAINT • BUILD

MARCH 15, 11AM-2PM
KING LIBRARY 303

LEARN MORE AT HTTP://LIBGUIDES.LIB.MIAMIOH.EDU/DIVERSITY/WOMEN

Mak

er space

“The one thing I missed
was the opportunity to read women's work out loud.”

MiamiOH WRI 2016 participant feedback

I think interaction and creation are so central to how we view, express, and come to learn more about our identities.

The opportunity to collaborate and create various art and craft pieces while thinking about the role women have played in the tradition of crafting and art expression was very powerful and enjoyable.

I LOVED the new concept.

Excellent and fun event. I appreciated the options. More things to do, including painting or sculpture or sewing, more stuff so we can do it all! Make it a day long event! Loved everything about it! Having easy takeaway projects worked out well, especially since they could be done quickly if someone was popping in and out. More please! I loved the changes and so did the students I heard from. This was a wonderful event.

OMG!!! I had such a great time!!!

I wouldn't change anything.”

MiamiOH WRI 2016 participant feedback

“I thought this was a great way to take [an] already known event and re-purpose it in a way that keeps it fresh.”

MiamiOH WRI 2016 participant feedback

Thank you!

Questions?

(Wanna make a button
while we chat?)

MiamiOHWR 2016 advertisements designed by Jessica Jerred. All photographs courtesy of Jessica Jerred & Erin Vonnahme.